NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT: PEOPLE, RESOURCES, ECOLOGY AND TRANSPORTATION IN THE YUKON AND THE NORTHWEST TERRITORIES.
A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS WITH SELECTED ANNOTATIONS.

by

Irene Bolliger
Department of Library Science
University of Toronto

There are many excellent publications available on Northern Development either by or sponsored by a government agency. The selection I have chosen to include is only representative of the four major groupings which constitute this bibliography, namely the people, the resources, the ecology and transportation in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

Since most of the publications chosen have a recent imprint date, they should be available from the issuing body. Those publications with an imprint date older than two - three years, would probably be available through inter-library loan from the appropriate departmental library of the Ministry or government agency concerned.

The general information sources were included to serve as a guide to give access to further and more comprehensive sources of information concerning Northern Development in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

There are no pamphlets included in this bibliography except for those whose paging has been given.

GENERAL:

Arctic Alternatives: A National Workshop on People, Resources and the Environment North of 60. Held at Carleton University, Ottawa, May 24-26 in cooperation with the Arctic Institute of North America. Ottawa: Canadian Arctic Resources Commission, 1973.

This book is part of the Canadian Arctic Resources Commission's efforts to provide perspectives on development in Canada's North. It is a record of the conference held at Carleton, including the background dossiers which were prepared in advance of the workshop, the recommendations of the working groups which used the dossiers as the basis for their deliberations and the transcripts of the symposia.

Arctic Bibliography. 13 vols. Washington, D.C.: Arctic Institute of North America for the Department of Defense, 1957.

Contains over 69,455 references published on the Arctic. Each publication is listed under authors name and a short summary of what it deals with is given at the end of each volume. There is also a subject index.

Arctic Circular. Ottawa: Arctic Circle, monthly.

Includes information on Northern Research projects and developments.

Arctic Institute of North America. Newsletter. Montreal: Arctic Institute of North America.

Canada. Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Canada North of 60. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, quarterly.

_____. _____. Canada North of 60. Newsletter. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, monthly.

_____. _____. Dialogue North. Yellowknife: Regional Information Service, Government of the N.W.T., quarterly.

Keeps residents in Northern Communities informed about resource development activities in their area such as Panarctic oil drilling, seismic surveys, air strips, etc.

Canada. Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.
North/Nord. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, bi-monthly.

_____. _____. Departmental Library. Acquisitions
List. Ottawa: Library, Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, monthly.

_____. _____. Northern Administration Branch.
Canada's North 1970-1980. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

This report sets out the governments's approach to policy in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and presents a policy framework for the information, coordination and implementation of all Federal and Territorial programs throughout the 70's.

_____. _____. _____. Unbelievable Land:
29 Experts Bring us Closer to the Arctic. Edited by I. Norman Smith. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

"This book contains a series of talks originally broadcast over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Northern Service by experts on the Arctic. Published together, they form an unusually authoritative and interesting narrative of what the Arctic is and means and of what is being done to tame it."

Cooper, P. F. The Mackenzie Delta - Technology. Mackenzie
Delta Research Report No. 2. Ottawa: Northern Science Research Group, Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1967.

This report is a study of the ways which modern technology could improve the standard of living of the native inhabitants of the Mackenzie Delta.

Franson, R., A. R. Lucan and A. R. Thompson. Legal Problems in the Canadian North prepared for the National Workshop on People, Resources and the Environment
North of 60. Ottawa: Canadian Arctic Resources Committee, 1972.

Publication includes "Dossier of Legal Problems in the North", the purpose of which is to identify and describe the problems which are most pressing for lawyers and legislators to look into.

Hemstock, C. A. and G. A. Cooke. Yukon Bibliography Update 1963-1970. Edmonton: University of Alberta, Boreal Institute for Northern Studies, 1973.

Information North. Montreal: Arctic Institute of North America, quarterly.

Information on the Arctic Institute of North America activities; items of general interest, reviews, conferences, and comments on topical matters are included.

Jones, Mary Jane. Mackenzie Delta Bibliography. Mackenzie Delta Research Report No. 6. Ottawa: Northern Science Research Group, Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1969.

Man in the North. Montreal: Arctic Institute of North America, 1970.

In March 1969 the Arctic Institute of North America organized a conference to discuss the possibility of establishing a research program concerning community development in the North. In 1970 a 3 year program was established. So far several kinds of reports have been issued; Progress reports, Project reports, Technical reports all available from the Arctic Institute of North America, Montreal.

North of 60: Prospectus for Resource and Economic Development in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

In ring binder format, a collection of fact sheets, information of a statistical and descriptive nature on virtually all aspects of Northern Development in the Yukon and Northwest Territories is included.

Northwest Territories Begins - Century Two. Annual Report of the Commissioner of the Northwest Territories, 1971. Yellowknife: Government of the Northwest Territories, 1972.

Science and the North: a Seminar on Guidelines for Scientific Activities in Northern Canada, 1972. Sponsored by the Sub-Committee on Science and Technology Advisory Committee on Northern Development, Ottawa, 1973.

"The seminar was held to assist in developing guidelines and priorities for scientific activities in support of the objectives and priorities for Northern Canada as stated by the Government. The term "scientific activities" is used in a broad sense and includes research investigations, surveys and data collecting considered part of the process for acquiring knowledge and information for planning the development and management of resources and the administration of Northern Canada.

PEOPLE:

Born, D. O. Eskimo Education and the Trauma of Social Change. Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, Northern Science Research Group, 1970.

ECOLOGY:

Berube, Y., R. Gilbert, et al. Mine Waste Contaminant and Water Quality in a Northern Environment. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

This publication covers general aspects of dyke design and water trailing systems. Investigations of water quality are carried out at two mines in the Yellowknife area. Water quality changes across trailing zones have been extensively studied by means of complete analysis for heavy metal ions dissolved in the water as it flows down stream. The report results in a set of preliminary guidelines for mine-waste management.

Bliss, L. C. and R. W. Wein. Botanical Studies of Natural and Man Modified Habitats in the Eastern Mackenzie Delta Region and the Arctic Islands. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

This report is a survey of the diversity and extent of the landscape, plant community and soil units of the Mackenzie Delta Region.

Clarke, C.H.D. Terrestrial Wildlife and Northern Development: Prepared for the National Workshop on People, Resources and the Environment North of 60. Ottawa: Canadian Arctic Resources Committee, 1972.

The study covers the impact of developments such as oil and gas pipelines, transportation air routes, etc. on the wildlife. The dangers of air pollution and oil spills are also examined.

Hill, Richard, M. "Petroleum Pipelines and the Arctic Environment," North/Nord, May-June 1971.

Kerfoot, D. F. Tundra Disturbance Studies in the Western Canadian Arctic. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

This report investigates and assesses the immediate and long range effects on the surface vegetation and terrain of various types, designs and operating procedures of various vehicles utilized by the resources exploration industry in both the forested and tundra regions of Northern Canada.

Lambert, J.D.H. Botanical Changes Resulting from Seismic and Drilling Operations: Mackenzie Delta Area. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

Botanical studies were carried out on two types of winter roads as part of a five-year study to determine the long range effects of seismic and drilling operations on the vegetation.

_____. Terrestrial Environments (Vegetation and Permafrost: Prepared for the National Workshop on People, Resources and the Environment North of 60. Ottawa: Canadian Arctic Resources Commission, 1972.

The ecological fragility and the impact of development upon the ecological balance is explored.

Lavkulich, L. M. Physical Environmental Studies near Watson Lake Yukon Territory. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

Information is presented to aid in the development of an environmental classification scheme near Watson Lake, Yukon. The development of such a scheme is based on resources inventory, geologic, hydrologic, geomorphic and vegetative parameters.

MacKenzie Basin, Proceedings of the Intergovernmental Seminar Held at Inuvik, Northwest Territories, June 24-27, 1972. Ottawa: Environment Canada, Lands Directorate, 1973.

Seminar centres around the theme of more effective communication and cooperation in the wise management of the MacKenzie River Basin with regards to water power, water supply, recreational development and resource management.

Verschuren, J. P., R. H. Cooper and H. E. Gazi. Classification of Stream Flow and Fluvial Geomorphology Characteristics near Watson Lake, Yukon Territory. (Arctic Land Use Research Program). Ottawa: Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, 1972.

This report describes the current status of research being conducted by the Department of Civil Engineering of the University of Alberta as part of the Arctic Land Use Research Program.

TRANSPORTATION:

Arctic Transport: Proceedings of the Arctic Transportation Conference 1970 Held at Yellowknife, N.W.T. December 8-9, 1970. Sponsored by the Ministry of Transport and the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Ottawa: 1971, 3 vols.

Volume One contains the proceedings of the opening, second and final plenary sessions. Volume one also contains the speeches of the Conference banquet, a short summary of all papers presented and a list of delegated and discussions at all sessions.

The 34 background papers as well as other papers presented at the Conference are published in volumes 2 and 3.

The theme of the Conference was "Arctic Transportation in the 70's." The objectives of the Conference were to develop a transportation system "that contributes to the orderly social and economic development of the area, compatible with the protection of the environment."
